1 What a domain name actually is

A domain name is the address people type to reach your website — for example molecularmiracles.co.uk. It is the sign above the door.

The website itself and the domain name are two separate things. Billy Digitals builds the website. The domain name is bought from a completely separate company called a registrar — businesses such as Namecheap, GoDaddy or Cloudflare. Think of it as the difference between fitting out a shop and renting the address it sits at.

A domain is rented, not bought outright

Nobody owns a domain name forever. You hold the exclusive right to use it for as long as you keep paying the yearly fee. Stop paying and it eventually goes back on the open market for anyone to take.

2 Who pays for it, and who owns it

The domain is paid for by you, directly to the registrar. It is not included in the £200 charged by Billy Digitals for building the website, and Billy Digitals takes no cut, commission or mark-up on it.

The domain will be registered in your name, on your own account, with your own login. It belongs to you and to nobody else. If you and Billy Digitals ever part ways, the domain stays with you and you can point it at any website, any host and any designer you like. Nothing is held hostage.

3 What it costs

The price is set by the registrar, not by Billy Digitals, and it varies by ending. Typical UK prices at the time of writing:

ENDING	TYPICAL PER YEAR	NOTES
.co.uk	£8 – £12	The usual choice for a UK business
.com	£10 – £15	International; often already taken
.scot	£20 – £30	Scottish; distinctive but dearer
.uk	£8 – £12	Shorter alternative to .co.uk

These are guide prices only. Registrars change them, and the first year is often discounted while the renewal is dearer — always check the renewal price, not just the introductory one.

4 Renewing it each year

The domain renews once a year on the date you bought it. The registrar will email you before it is due.

Please switch auto-renew on

If the domain expires, your website and any email on that address stop working, usually without warning. After a grace period the name is released and somebody else can register it — including a competitor. Recovering a lapsed domain is sometimes impossible and often expensive. Turning on auto-renew, and keeping a valid card on the account, avoids the whole problem.

5 Who does what

You (Molecular Miracles)

- Choose the domain name you want
- Buy it in your own name and pay the registrar
- Keep the login details safe
- Keep auto-renew switched on
- Keep the card and contact email on the account up to date

Billy Digitals

- Help you pick a good name and check it is free
- Recommend a reputable registrar
- Walk you through the purchase if you want
- Set up the technical records so the domain points at your website
- Do all of the above at no extra charge

6 What Billy Digitals is not responsible for

- Registrar fees, price rises or renewal charges — these are between you and the registrar
- A domain expiring because a renewal was missed or a card declined
- A name being unavailable because somebody else registered it first
- Anything that happens to the domain after you move it away or change the login details

7 Email on your domain

A domain can also give you a business email address such as hello@molecularmiracles.co.uk, which looks more professional than a Gmail address. That is a separate paid service (Google Workspace and Microsoft 365 are the common ones, roughly £5–£7 per month) and is not included in the £200 or in this annex. It can be set up later at any time — just ask and it can be quoted for.

8 How this fits with the main agreement

This annex forms part of Agreement BD-MM-001 between Billy Digital and Molecular Miracles Chemistry Tuition. It explains and confirms section 3 of that agreement. If anything here conflicts with the main agreement, this annex takes precedence on the subject of the domain name only.

The short version

The domain is your address on the internet, it is separate from the £200, you buy it and it is yours, it costs roughly £10–£15 a year, and it must be renewed every year or the site goes offline. Billy Digital will set it all up for you at no extra cost.
